ORGANIZED FOR SUFFRAGE CAUSE

Adams County Committee Named to Carry on Work for Woman's Suffrage here. County Divided into Districts. Officers Appointed.

Adams County's suffragists organized in Gettysburg Thursday afternoon and prepared to open a vigorous campaign for their cause. All departments of work were mapped out, committees appointed and other preliminaries given attention.

The appointment of Mrs. Wm Arch
McClean as county chairman which had been made by Miss Hannah Patterson, State Chairman, was ratified
by a unanimous rising vote of all adherents present and Mrs. McClean then appointed the various other officers and heads of committees.

Mrs. George Seaks, of New Oxford, was appointed vice chairman of the county, and Mrs. W. C. Sheely, of Gettysburg, secretary and treasurer.
A standing committee of four was named to have charge of the various branches of the work. They are, Enrollment, Miss Lydia E. Hartman, Littlestown; Literature, Mrs. Harvey
Neely, York Springs; Propaganda,
Mrs. George Seaks, New Oxford; Literature, Mrs. John D. Keith, Gettysburg.

The county was divided into seven districts for work with a district
chairman for each as follows: First District, Mrs. William Rebert, Cashtown;
Second District, Mrs. Aaron
L. Weidner of Arendtsville; Third District, Mrs. J. Harvey Neely,
York Springs; Fourth District, Mrs.
George Seaks, New Oxford; Fifth District, Mrs. Wilson Hollinger, Abbottstown; Sixth District, Miss Lydia
E. Hartman, Littlestown; Seventh
District, Mrs. David J. Forney, Gettysburg.

An extensive advertising campaign
using suffrage literature, is to be conducted in every portion of the county
and an effort made to enroll as many adherents as possible. The state organizer, here recently, succeeded in getting 170 signers, forty of whom reside in New Oxford. She was much pleased with the attitude of Adams County people generally regarding the cause she represents.

ADAMS COUNTY CASES

Arrested for Assault on York Springs
Man. False Pretense Charge.

Detective Harry J. Bentley, of Carlisle, arrested Harry Kuhn, of Mt.
Holly Springs, charged with assault and battery on oath of John K. Snavely, proprietor of the hotel at York
Springs, who alleges that Kuhn split
his nose open. The fracas occurred while Snaveley was watching a baseball game, it is said. Snaveley was in bed several days as the result of the assault, which occurred June 27th.
Kuhn gave bail in the sum of $400
for hearing on July 13th.

Officer Bentley also arrested C. K.
Kauffman of near East Berlin, who is charged with false pretense by Austin Eppley, of near Carlisle. Kauffman bought two mares from Eppley
for $295, and gave his note claiming to be owner of a farm worth $3000.
It was learned that he did not own a farm, but that it was his wife's. Afterward Kauffman went into bankruptcy in Adams county. He gave bail in the sum of $400 for a hearing
July 7.

MEAN SITUATION CONFRONTS BOARD

Unreasonable Demands of State
Likely to Mean that Local School Board will Have to Pay Entire Salary of Miss Fox.

If Gettysburg's High School girls
are all to enjoy the domestic science course this coming school term the board of education will either have to provide additional room for the department and an expert seamstress,
or else they will have to pay the entire salary of $90 a month at which Miss Fox was re-elected head of the department.

This condition was reported at the regular July meeting of the school board held on Thursday evening and comes as the result of a visit to Gettysburg of Mr. King, head of the Home Art Department work of the state. The school board now receives two thirds of Miss Fox's salary from the state but it was the general expression of the directors Thursday night that the board would have to pay the entire salary rather than go to the expense which the state indicated.

More room must be secured, said
Mr. King, and this must include a kitchen, dining room, living room bed room and laundry. To get this he suggested three methods, either renting a house, using part of the enlarged High School now in process of construction, or using the entire second floor of the present building.

The employment of a seamstress
could be avoided by allowing only the girls who elect the Home Art course to take domestic science work. The directors did not feel inclined to accept this method, feeling that every girl in the school ought to be given instruction in cooking and the other branches of domestic science.

The demands of the state in the matter are regarded as unreasonable and Mr. King will be requested to come here to go over the situation with the local board. It is feared that,
to attempt to comply with the requirements, would cost so much money
that it would make the continuing
of the course impossible and the most economical thing at present appears to be the school board's assuming the entire salary of Miss Fox and carrying on the work in the same manner
as last year.

It was decided to discontinue the work of manual training among the boys of the Eighth Grade, confining
the work to only the first and second
years in the High School.

Monday, August 31, was fixed as the date for the opening of school, the period of compulsory attendance to start with the second month.

R. C. Miller announced that he was not a candidate for re-election as secretary and Milton R. Remmel was elected at a salary of $50 a year. I. L.
Taylor was re-elected treasurer and again agreed to serve without compensation.

Adjournment was taken to next Monday evening when a conference will be held with Tax Collector Bum-baugh. The School Code provides that the tax duplicate for one year shall not be turned over to the collector
until that for the preceding year shall have been settled for. Monday is the day when the duplicate for 1914
should be in Mr. Bumbaugh's hands and he has not yet closed the 1913
business.

TOOK ANOTHER

Large Crowd Witnesses Game between Gettysburg and Shrewsbury.

Gettysburg added another to its list of victories on Thursday afternoon when Shrewsbury was again
shut out, this time by the score of 4
to 0. Bradshaw's pitching and Gettysburg's timely hitting were responsible for the game which came in four successive innings starting with the fifth, one run being scored in each round. Bradshaw allowed but four hits and struck out nine men, fully redeeming himself for any difficulties he encountered on Playground Day. The York Countians had seven errors
while Gettysburg had but two. An enthusiastic crowd witnessed the game.

In the evening the Methodist and College combination held the Catholics to a 4-4 tie and the game will be listed for the postponed series.

THERE is something more than
style and beauty to our parasols,
there is comfort and protection from the sun. Prices range from $1.00 to $5.00. Still a good selection. G. W.

HAVE INSPECTED COUNTY BRIDGES

County Commissioners Find Repairs
Necessary at a Number of Them.
Want Three New Bridges in Cumberland Township.

The annual inspection of the bridges of the county has been completed and repairs will be ordered to a number.

The most extensive work required
is in Freedom township at the farm of Judge White, and at the bridge in Straban township at the farm of William B. McIlhenny. At the former the walls will have to be rebuilt and painting of the entire bridge is required. A new wall will have to be built for the Straban township bridge.

Minor repairs are required at many of the other bridges, including repainting at several, renewing of the planking at others and some filling.
There are 112 bridges owned by the county, almost all of which are subject to hard usage and their up-keep
is a proposition of no small proportions.

Three delegations of citizens from Cumberland township have recently appeared before the commissioners to ask new bridges where there are now only fordings. The one of these is at the farm of T. Marshall Mehrling, the second at the Charles Toot farm and the third at Natural Dam. The commissioners scarcely feel justified in giving three new bridges to one township and no action has yet been taken.

READY FOR PARADE

pendence Day Celebration.

All arrangements have been completed for the Independence Day celebration in Gettysburg in Saturday

C. B. Hoffman, John F. Walter and Luther McDonnell. The Gettysburg

speakers and guests in automobiles.
The remainder of the parade will be organized as follows: Gettysburg

from the county, P. O. S. of A., with George Taylor as marshal and C. C.
Bream and W. L. Oyler as aides; Gettysburg Drum Corps, O. of I. A., with Sandoe Kitzmiller as marshal and Earl Deardorff and E. E. Hutchinson as aides; Sons of Veterans Reserves, decorated automobiles competing for $500 prize. This competition is open to all comers.

The parade will form at 5:30 at the Meade School building and will move promptly at six o'clock. Its route will be on Chambersburg street to the Square, on York to Liberty, to Middle,
to Franklin, to High, to Washington,
to Breckenridge, to Baltimore, to the Square, out Carlisle street to Water,
to Stratton, to York, to Square where the parade will be reviewed by the speakers and guests, and then proceed
down Chambersburg street to Washington, to Middle, to Baltimore, to the Square where the paraders will be massed on the south side of the Square for the exercises.

FREE ANTI-TOXIN

Can Prevent Fourth of July Wounds
from Developing Seriously.

The People's Drug Store has been named as one of the sixty nine tetanus antitoxin stations throughout the Commonwealth which have received their supplies from the Department of Health and are ready to meet the usual Fourth of July demands. The antitoxin will be furnished without cost to the poor. It is essential that the tetanus antitoxin be administered
within 24 to 48 hours after the wound
has been inflicted. Any physician can secure an immunizing dose of 1500
units free upon applying to a distributing station, on certifying that it is for the treatment of a person too
poor to pay.

BECAUSE our store will be closed
all day on Saturday, we will keep open this, Friday, evening until 8:30.

ODD FELLOWS' BIG REUNION

Plan Even Larger Gathering on the Mountain than Last Year. Eleven Excursions Booked from Many Different Points. The Plans.

Big as was the Odd Fellows reunion
at Pen Mar last year there is reason for the belief that the annual gathering of the order there, Thursday, August 6, will be even larger.

One of the controlling factors toward this bigger crowd is the fact that more trains will be run to the park and that many more excursionists are expected. For the first time there will be run a special train over the Norfolk & Western Railway. It will start from Elkton, Va., and there are already assurances that it will bring a very large number of Odd Fellows to Pen Mar. For a number of years the lodges in that section have wanted the opportunity to take part in the reunion and they have finally been given a special train. There will be eleven excursion trains to the park.

Judge Paul A. Benson of the common pleas court of Erie County, grand master of the I. O. O. F. in Pennsylvania will preside over the meeting in the auditorium.

The degree staff of Garden Rebekah lodge, No. 33, Gardenville, Md., will give an exhibition drill at 4 p. m.,
after the exercises in the auditorium.
The degree staff is thoroughly equipped and one of the best in Maryland.
Mrs. Lillian Joyneis is the director.

At 1:45 the Patriarchs Militant (twelve cantons have been invited by Secretary Geesaman) will form in a body at the Western Maryland station and march to the auditorium. A prize of $15 will be given the canton having the largest number of men in line
and one of $10 to the canton with the second largest number.

There will be present a number of bands, which will give concerts during the morning and afternoon. The exercises in the auditorium will be held at 2:30. There will be a speaker of national reputation.

The reunion committee has adopted
for its slogan, this year: "On to Pen Mar for the Greatest Reunion Yet Held".

LEFT NOTHING TO WIFE

Widow of Murdered Man Gets Nothing under his Will.

By the will of Edgar McCauley he leaves his property to his first wife, Mrs. Mary S. McCauley, who was divorced from him, and her children,
and nothing to his second wife, who
shot and killed him at Arlington, June 23d. This means that his widow will be deprived of all except dower rights in his property. The will was executed January 3, 1911, before the divorce and second marriage. His daughter, Miss Catherine R. Mc-Cauley, is left $100 and the rest of the property is given to the first wife and son, Edgar E. McCauley, equally.
Frank G. Wagoner, a lawyer, of Hagerstown, Md., is named guardian
for the children and also executor of the will.

They Are Willing to Parley
For Peace Terms.

SEND WORD TO MEDIATORS

It Is Believed Carranza Will Send Delegates, But No One Ventures to Predict When.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 3.—Communication between the two warring factions in Mexico which, it is hoped,
eventually will lead to conferences
for the establishment of peace, was begun when the delegation representing General Huerta formally addressed to the three South American mediators a note to be transmitted to the Constitutionalists' representatives in Washington.

The Huerta delegates express their willingness to discuss measures of peace with the Constitutionalists and bring to an end the war which has been devastating their country.

The Huerta delegates wrote in response to an identical note from the mediators, to them and to the American delegation suspending indefinitely
the sessions of mediation because the international side of the controversy
virtually had been adjusted and calling attention to the correspondence with General Carranza in which he asked for more time to consult his subordinates about the peace conference.

The Huerta delegates replied in two separate communications, one setting
forth their own approval and gratification at the amicable settlement of the international conflict and the other,
intended for transmission to the Constitutionalists, explaining their readiness to begin informal conferences for the selection of a provisional president and the solution of internal problems.

The disposition of the American forces now at Vera Cruz has been left for consideration until such time as the two factions agree on the new provisional government. While the protocols already signed cover many phases of the international situation,
it is generally recognized that until a provisional government is agreed on
and a date set for recognition of the new government, American troops
will not be withdrawn and international questions not finally settled.

The mediation colony is disposed to regard the protocols thus far signed as terms of peace which represent an agreement between the United States
and Mexico to resume diplomatic relations upon the fulfillment of a single condition—the establishment of a provisional government by agreement of the Mexican factions. It is being taken for granted that General Carranza ultimately will send delegates, but no
one ventures to predict when.

ZAPATA MENACES CAPITAL

Warning of Great Danger to Foreigners Is Taken to Bryan, It Is Said.

Washington, July 3.—An alarming
report of conditions around Mexico City was circulated, based upon what purported to be a message of warning
to Secretary of State Bryan, sent by a diplomat in the Mexican capital to a colleague in Washington.

Though confirmation was not forthcoming the report was circumstantial
and aroused considerable anxiety for
the safety of foreigners in the capital.
What is said to be a translation of the message follows:

"Notify Bryan immediately that Zapata, through an emissary, has notified Huerta that unless he surrenders
the reins of government he will cut off the water supply and electric power of the city of Mexico.

"As the result of this people, especially foreigners, are in a state of panic, as it is known that an uprising
will take place the moment the city
is plunged in darkness and the water supply cut off.

"Notify him also that two emissaries of Carranza are secretly in this city trying to subvert two of Huerta's generals commanding the forces in the city of Mexico."

Carranza to Visit Villa.

El Paso, Tex., July 3.—That Venus-tiano Carranza has decided to head
the lion in his den and make a personal visit to Pancho Villa, the rebel-lous military chief, is the news given out in Juarez. A telegram from San Antonio says a similar announcement has been made by Robert V. Pesqueira who as a result of Carranza's plans
had turned back there from his contemplated visit to his chief at Saltillo.

Denies Angeles Slaying.

El Paso, Tex., July 3.—General
Villa has transmitted to an American newspaper a denial of the report
that General Felipe Angeles, chief artillery officer, was executed by Carranza. In his message he adds: "My attitude toward the United States remains always amicable and cordial."

Threatens Base Ball Boycott.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 3.—The Westinghouse strikers sent Governor Tener
an ultimatum that unless he withdraws the state police from the strike
zone they will start a boycott against the National Base Ball league, of which the governor is president.

KAISER ABANDONS TRIP TO VIENNA

Emperor Will Not Go to Archduke's Funeral.

Potsdam, Germany, July 3.—Emperor William suddenly abandoned his intended trip to Vienna to attend the funeral of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, who was assassinated on Sunday.

It was announced that the emperor was suffering from a severe cold, attended with symptoms of lumbago. In court circles it is said that the emperor's illness is of the slightest character and need not have prevented
his trip to Vienna.

The abandonment was dictated, it was said, by his majesty's wish to spare the aged Emperor Francis Joseph the trouble and agitation of entertaining.

It is surmised that a hint was received from Vienna indicating that the visit of Emperor William was not desirable under the circumstances.

Martial Law in Bosnia.

Sarajevo, Bosnia, July 3.—Martial law has been declared throughout Bosnia and Herzegovina. There has been constant rioting in both provinces since Sunday's tragedy, and on Wednesday several Serbian churches
at Arevo and Guballo were stormed
and destroyed by Moslem mobs in retaliation for the assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife by Gavrio Prinzip, a Serbian student.

In addition to the riots in Arevo and Guballo, there was great disorder on Wednesday in Tuzla and Mladaj.

TOOTH REPLANTED AMAZES DENTISTS

Evidence of Rare Operation

BOY LOST JAWBONE, LIVES

Many Odd Operations Were Displayed
and Carbolic Acid Introduced as an Anesthetic.

Philadelphia, July 3.—The trans-
planting of a tooth, a dental operation
so rare that some dentists refuse to believe it possible, was shown before
members of the Pennsylvania State Dental society in the city dental clinic
for primary school children, room 706
city hall.

Dr. P. B. McCullough, chief of the clinic, displayed a tooth now contentedly implanted in the left upper jaw
of an eleven-year-old youngster, that once had tried to thrust itself between the two front teeth.

Members of the state society, who have been attending their annual meeting this week at the Bellevue Stratford hotel, expressed amazement
at the healthy condition of the gum.

Dr. McCullough explained that he had sterilized the boy's mouth for half an hour before performing the operation, and had immersed the tooth in a sterile salt solution. Not more than three minutes was the tooth out of its old position before it found itself planted in a new spot. Firmly bound to a neighboring tooth with splints
the astonished molar has evidently settled down to grow into the jaw as if it always had lived there. The splints, which were applied in May,
will be removed in September.

But a transferred tooth was not the sum of the dental wonders. Faces changed in shape, jaws raised at eighths of an inch, cancer of the jaw
treated, enlargement of the jawbone removed, crooked teeth straightened
and carbolic acid introduced as an anesthetic instead of cocaine—these were some of the innovations displayed. A long row of beaming children glad to pop open their mouths and to display proudly the order that has been evoked from chaos and worse
waited in the hall or filed slowly before the guests.

One boy of nine years has had most of his upper right jawbone removed
under the direction of the city clinic
because it was infected with cancer.
The doctors had shaken their heads
and given the boy six months to live.
The diseased bone was taken out last September and the youngster now has no intention of dying. By and by he will have a nice new plate to take the place of the old jaw.

No little surprise attended the exposition of carbolic acid as a local anesthetic. "So far as I know, no body else has used carbolic acid in place of cocaine for the painless removal of teeth," said Dr. McCullough.
"If carbolic acid—just ordinary carbolic acid—is used, according to my method, the extraction of a tooth does not hurt even as much as the needle
prick necessary when a hypodermic injection of cocaine is given. Cocaine is a very treacherous drug, and we don't use it at all in this public school
clinic."

ROOSEVELT RESTS AGAIN

All Visitors Barred and Colonel Is to Spend Six Weeks Quietly.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 3.—The rest
cure treatment was undertaken again
by Colonel Roosevelt. He not only declined himself to visitors, but refrained
from having his usual work hour with his secretary.

Mr. Roosevelt sent his secretary to New York with messages to the Progressive headquarters, and put, in the forenoon in a long tramp through the woods.

Colonel Roosevelt was so encouraged by the half-promise of Dr. H.
Hobbrook Curtis that he might expect to be in fighting trim in another six weeks that he determined to follow
the physician's advice.

Fear Panama Riots.

Panama, July 3.—The election for the national assembly next Sunday presents a serious aspect, and the

to prevent possible rioting. The leading newspaper strongly opposes the present administration.

HEAR OF NEW PLAN FOR IRISH PEACE

Arrangement May be Reached Within 48 Hours.

London, July 3.—The gravity of the situation in Ireland, produced by the differences over the home rule measure, has impressed itself so deeply on the minds of men of all parties that party leaders are striving to their utmost to arrive at some arrangement
which may avert the catastrophe that threatens.

During the last two days these efforts have been pushed with great earnestness and it is quite possible
that a modus vivendi will be reached
within forty-eight hours.

The precise effect of the house of lords' proposed amendments to the government's amending bill will not be known until the home rule bill
reaches the committee stage next week, but favorable omens are drawn by the London newspapers from the conciliatory tone of the speeches on both sides of the house of lords for a renewal of the negotiations between the party leaders, which, it is believed, will result in an agreement.

The Daily Mail asserts that Premier Asquith's attitude has undergone a modification and that he now is ready to grant exclusion to Ulster by statute
instead of by the ballot.

On the strength of Lord Crewe's promise that the amendment to the amending bill will receive careful consideration from the government,
Lord Lansdowne said that the opposition will not oppose the bill on its second reading. He said that the bill is defective in four points—the method of exclusion, the area to escape home rule, the duration of the term
of exclusion and the conditions fixed
by the government for the excluded areas.

BATTLE SHIP GOES TO HAITI

The Connecticut Will Carry New U. S.
Minister and Stay There.

Washington, July 3.—The big battle ship Connecticut will take Arthur Dally-Blanchard, the new American minister to turbulent Haiti, to his post
at Port au Prince.

The warship steamed from Vera Cruz for Havana, Cuba, where Minister Dally-Blanchard will arrive.

Secretary Daniels said the Connecticut would remain in Haitian and Dominican waters for the present, refraining the four American warships
already there.

Both of the island republics are torn by revolution, and while Captain Russell, of the South Carolina, has reported that he has adequate force to insure the safety of foreign lives and property, the department decided to send the Connecticut as a precautionary measure.

SLEEPING GIRL WALKS MILE

Tooting Locomotive Breaks Work of Sonnambulist on Way to Work.

Sunbury, Pa., July 3.—Dreaming
that she was on her way to work at a factory, Miss Nora Kauffman, aged eighteen years, of Sunbury, arose at three o'clock in the morning and had a tooting locomotive awakened her.

Frightened, she ran the whole distance back home, where her mother and missed her and was making a search. She collapsed from fright and exhaustion and is under a doctor's care.

Lassen Hurls Boulders Half Mile.

Red Bluff, Cal., July 3.—Mount Lassen became active again, throwing
up great quantities of smoke, rocks
and ashes, while sulphur fumes spread out over the surrounding country for miles. Boulders were hurled a distance of half a mile from the crater,
and the smoke column rose to a height of 2000 feet.

TRAGEDIES IN LIFE OF AGED EMPEROR

Killing of Nephew His Fourth Great Sorrow.

HIS WIFE ASSASSINATED.

Stabbed by an Anarchist Following Tragic Death of Her Only Son, the Archduke Rudolph—Monarch's Brother
Maximilian Executed in Mexico,
Which Country He Sought to Rule.

The assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife is the fourth great tragedy in the life of Emperor Francis Joseph, now in his eighty-fourth year. The emperor has seen the eldest of his three younger brothers, the Archduke Ferdinand, the Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, executed; his only son, the Archduke Rudolph, die under mysterious and scandalous circumstances, either murdered or a suicide; his wife, the beloved Empress Elizabeth, assassinated, and now his second heir and the latter's wife assassinated.

The attempt of the Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian of Mexico to establish himself as emperor of that turbulent country was made against the advice of his elder brother, Francis Joseph.

The civil war in Mexico just prior to our own civil war had resulted, as the present revolution has resulted, in heavy losses to foreigners. The United States considered intervention, and a joint intervention by Great Britain, France, Spain and Prussia also was considered. Napoleon III. finally took up the claim of a Swiss banker, and with the assistance of Spain and Great Britain France occupied Vera Cruz and finally entered Mexico City on June 7, 1863. A provisional government was formed, and the crown of emperor was offered to the Archduke Ferdinand of Austria.

Beset by Difficulties.

The archduke consented and landed in Mexico as Emperor Maximilian on May 28, 1864, after renouncing all rights to the Austrian succession. He immediately was beset by a multitude of difficulties. As a foreigner he was disliked, and his foreign troops were unpopular. The Mexicans thought he was too conservative, and the clericals, who had done much to set him up as emperor, considered him too liberal. His rule was hardly more than nominal for the short time it lasted.

Napoleon III. urged him to abdicate, but the new emperor refused to desert his followers. He withdrew from the capital to Queretaro in February, 1867, and after a long siege attempted to escape through the enemy's lines. He was arrested, condemned to death by court martial, and sentence was executed on June 19, 1867. His body was taken to Vienna for burial.

The tragedy of Meyerling, through which the Archduke Rudolph met his death, has been kept as much of a mystery as possible by imperial silence. Some historians have accepted it as an established fact that Rudolph committed suicide that night in his hunting lodge, although admitting that the Baroness Marie Vetsera met her death at the hunting lodge at the same time.

From statements made at various times by persons close to the facts it appears to have been at least partially established that the archduke died of a great wound in the head made seemingly by some heavy instrument.

No one was ever punished for the death of the archduke or of the young woman, the imperial government preferring to let the murderer go rather than to give publicity to the events of the night. Dozens of stories have been told and denied.

Noted For Her Beauty.

The Empress Elizabeth at the time of her marriage to the young Francis Joseph was reputed to be the most beautiful princess in Europe. The marriage took place on April 24, 1854. In the first years of her married life she frequently went court to Vienna, where she was particularly in love for her husband. Her popularity with the Hungarians, however, was always great, and in her later years Austria too changed its attitude toward her.

She had not recovered from the shock of the death of her only son, the Archduke Rudolph, when in 1897 her cousin, Louis II. of Bavaria, committed suicide, and then in 1897 her sister, Sophia, duchess of Alencon, was killed in the Paris charity bazaar fire. On Sept. 10, 1898, while walking from her hotel to a steamer at Geneva she was stabbed by an Italian anarchist and died within a few hours.

SHE MAY SEEK BIG OFFICE.

Wife of Immigration Commissioner Interested in Lieutenant Governorship.

Mrs. Anthony Caminetti, wife of the commissioner general of immigration and one of the most active women in Democratic politics, may become a candidate for the nomination for lieutenant governor in California.

Several women leaders of the party have been urging her into the race, and Mrs. Caminetti admits that she is giving considerable thought to the proposal. She said she would not "permit the Democrats to be outdone by the Republicans," who have a woman candidate for lieutenant governor.

Queer Things That Turn Up In the News

Mr. and Mrs. George Banks of Youngstown, O., have the distinction of being great-grandparents in their seventy-ninth year and of having four generations of direct descendants, making five generations of the family.

Woman presided at a divorce hearing Terre Haute, first time in the history of Indiana courts.

Charles Miner of Brattleboro, Vt., owns a horse weighing over 3,000 pounds and said to be the largest horse in the world.

Ordinary scarecrows failing to get results, a Wisconsin farmer rigged up one with a slit skirt. The crows now steer clear of his field.

One of twenty-five octogenarians who planned a banquet in France is Louis Coulon, who has a beard that is said to be the longest in the world. It is nine feet ten inches long.

Losing a spoonful of brains in a gasoline explosion, a Brooklyn (N. Y.) chauffeur sued his employer, setting a value of $50,000 on the lost gray matter. If his brain is of normal weight it is worth $20,000,000 at this rate.

IDEAL WIFE DESCRIBED BY A HUNDRED YOUNG MEN.

Beauty of Character and Domestic Virtues Demanded by All.

The qualities a young woman should possess to be an "ideal wife" have been named by a large number of young men of Pomona, Cal., as the result of the selecting of the "ideal husband" by the young women of the First Baptist church. The pastor, the Rev. W. F. Harper, first preached a sermon on the "ideal husband" from the standpoint of the young woman.

To secure his data he distributed lists of questions to over a hundred Pomona girls, and from these answers a most interesting sermon was delivered.

There came a demand for another sermon in which the young men would have an opportunity to express the qualifications which they considered the "ideal wife" should possess.

Accordingly questions were distributed among more than a hundred young men. Practically all responded. "The young man say that the 'ideal young woman' must be healthy and strong, but not masculine. She is tall or medium as to height, erect of carriage and possessing the beauty of character rather than of face.

Brunettes have the preference, though blonds and those of medium complexion are not without admirers. The athletic young woman is preferred only in so far as her interest in athletics indicates good health and ability to keep a neat, tidy home.

All want to know her disposition in the home and her treatment of her home folks, especially of her helpfulness to her mother and her attitude toward her brother. Chumminess with her father and brother counts strongly in her favor.

The following characteristics are mentioned as indispensable: A sunny, joyful, affectionate disposition; integrity, vivacity, practicality, straightforwardness and honesty; modesty in dress and manners and will power enough to stand by a right decision.

Nearly all insist that she have practical domestic training, while a musical and a business education are declared to be desirable.

Thomas Jefferson Postcard. Issuance of a new post card has been announced by the postoffice department. It is to replace the card which bears the profile portrait of William McKinley. The new card will bear the portrait of Thomas Jefferson and will be printed in green ink.

SUMMER HORSE SENSE.

Don't overload the wagon.
Don't speed your horse.
Use well fitting, lightweight harness, loose fitting collars and open bridles.

On long hauls allow periods of rest in the shade.

At the first sign of exhaustion stop and bathe the animal's head and neck with cold water. In case of complete exhaustion or sunstroke endeavor to get animal in shade, remove all harness except bridle and apply ice packs to top of head and neck. Packs can be made by wrapping cracked ice in piece of old blanket, feed bag or any material handy.

If ice cannot be obtained pour cold water slowly over head, neck and shoulders from pail or hose and keep animal in prostate position.

Carry a pail and sponge to frequently wash or swab the animal's nose, mouth and face.

Give a warm bran mash on Wednesday nights, in addition to the one given on Saturday nights.

Relieve harness pressure from sores.

Do not overfeed or underfeed. Study the individual horse and determine just how much nourishment it requires.

CANNED TALKS IN HEALTH CRUSADE

Federal Bureau to Elaborate Upon Lecture Plan.

WILL UTILIZE PHONOGRAPH.

Treatises Now Available Through Card Mounts Will Be Distributed on Record Plates and Cylinders—Pictures and Explanatory Texts on Hygiene. National Campaign Contemplated.

"Canned" lectures on hygiene and sanitation is the newest idea of the United States public health service in its campaign to educate the public in matters of health and disease prevention, part of the crusade which has for its goal of achievement the eradication of preventable diseases from American territory.

At present these "canned" lectures are card mounts, intended for distribution upon application among schools, libraries and wherever a demand has been created for this sort of information. The same lectures are in the near future to be read into the phonograph and distributed on phonograph record plates and cylinders.

Each lecture consists of a number of pictures on given hygienic or sanitation topics, each picture accompanied by text explaining it fully. The pictures are also made for stereopticon slides, so that they can be shown on a screen while the lecturer reads descriptive matter from the accompanying card.

On the topic of typhoid fever there are ninety-five slides, with accompanying text, assembled for one lecture. Other lectures concern infectious diseases, tuberculosis, smallpox, yellow fever, typhus, malaria and general sanitary conditions.

Purely Educational Policy.

The campaign of the United States public health service is concerned with purely educational publicity. Its aim is to spread the gospel of hygiene and sanitation into every household and to every man, woman and child who has ears to hear and eyes to see and will stop, look and listen and receive and retain benefit.

The stereopticon library of the public health service is a most important adjunct of its educational campaign. Primarily the material in the stereopticon library is intended for the use of the surgeons of the public health service to aid them in the lectures they are called upon to deliver everywhere over the United States.

There are now several thousand stereopticon slides assembled in the stereopticon library. This number is constantly being added to both by acquisition from outside sources and the great number being made constantly by the public health service corps. Each slide is numbered and filed away. There are duplicates of most of them.

Adequate Object Lessons.

Those who are in Washington have access to the stereopticon library. The surgeon preparing for a lecture will consult the catalogue and determine what the stereopticon library affords to illumine his theme. Then he proceeds to the stereopticon library and assembles the slides and descriptive matter that he finds best suit his purpose. These are packed for him, and he takes them with him or they are sent to his destination by express.

For the surgeon who cannot look over the stereopticon library the method is modified to his needs. He consults the catalogue, writes for the matter he desires from the stereopticon library and it is forwarded to him.

Specially made boxes have been prepared for the shipment of those slides and text.

Besides photographs and reproductions, there are a great number of suggestive drawings intended to give an adequate object lesson, easily understood and generally comprehensive. Such, for instance, is a drawing to illustrate the topic of typhoid fever, tracing the source and method of infection.

Abdomen ..... 20 inches
Chest, lat. dia. .... 16 inches
Chest, front to back ..... 14 inches

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

STRAWBERRY CAKES.

STRAWBERRIES served in individual desserts are especially appreciated. Recipes for several dainty desserts of this sort are given below:

Covered With Meringue.

Strawberry Cakes.—Cream one-fourth cupful of butter, add gradually one cupful of granulated sugar, the beaten yolks of two eggs and beat until very light. Sift one and one-half cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and add alternately with one half cupful of water, fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake in small, deep round tins. When cold scoop out the centers, fill with crushed and sweetened berries, cover with meringue and brown lightly in the oven.

Strawberry Meringue.—Place in a large bowl two cupfuls of hulled berries and half a cupful of white sugar; shake them about until the berries are well sugared; then spread them over a thin sweet cake baked in a square jelly tin. Fit a strip of paper around the cake and fasten with a pin. Make a meringue with the whites of three eggs and a cupful of powdered sugar spread it over the berries on the cake and set in a quick oven to brown.

Handsome Eclairs.

Strawberry Eclairs.—Cream puffs and eclairs filled with fresh strawberries crushed and sweetened instead of the usual cream filling are among the delights of the season. To make the eclairs put into a saucepan a cupful milk, two rounded tablespoonfuls butter and a tablespoonful sugar. Set over the fire. When this mixture boils up stir in a heaped cupful of sifted flour and cook for two minutes, beating all the time with a wooden spoon. When it is smooth and velvety take off the stove and cool. When cool beat in four eggs, one at a time. Beat vigorously for twenty minutes. Test by putting a bit of the paste in the oven. If it puffs up in the form of a hollow ball it is beaten enough. If not beat a little longer. Have ready a tapering tin tube with the lesser opening about three-quarters of an inch in diameter. Insert this in the small end of a cotton pastry bag and put the paste in the bag. Now press out on buttered tins, having each eclair about three inches in length. Bake about twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Take out and while still warm coat with a strawberry icing made by adding to a cupful of confectioner's sugar enough strawberry juice to make a fine icing. A few drops of lemon juice may also be added. When cold cut open on the side and fill with the berries crushed and sweetened.

Why the Boiler Rumbles.

That noisy rumbling and clattering in the kitchen boiler after the gas water heater has been lighted for some time has scared many a woman. The editor of Monthly Gas Chat says it need alarm no one, as it is caused by the expansion of the water as it is heated from the top of the boiler. The colder water below, rushing up to displace the expanded water above, will often cause a concussion.

TAFFETAS VIE FOR FAVOR WITH SHEER STUFFS IN DANCE FROCKS

Plain and flowered taffetas are much used for dance frocks; on the plain dresses artificial flowers are used for trimmings, catching up the panners, tacked to the shoulder and at the throat. It is a pleasing and becoming idea. The popularity of taffetas or these frocks does not say that chiffon, silk voile and the other sheer fabrics have lost favor at all; they are quite as much in evidence as ever.

A charming dance gown is illustrated in Number 8184; it is developed in peach-colored silk voile banded and bodied in peach-colored, flower-strewn chiffon. It is an overblouse dress with a gathered tucker of fine net; the skirt is a three-piece model with two straight

Medical Advertising Sage Tea Keeps Your Hair Dark

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Soft, Fluffy Hair Aids Beauty and Personalities

Girls and women of all ages want to be charming, beautiful and attractive—it's their birthright—but stringy, thin and lifeless hair destroys half the beauty of a pretty face.

If your hair is not beautiful, is falling out, streaky, full of dandruff, too dry, or if the scalp itches and burns, use Parisian Sage. Rub it well into the hair roots, nourish them, and stimulate the hair to grow strong and luxuriant. Parisian Sage removes dandruff with no application cools and invigorates the scalp and makes the hair doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage is a scientifically made preparation that gives the hair just what is needed to make it soft, fluffy, thick and gloriously radiant. It is inexpensive, and can be had from any druggist or from People's Drug Store.

Farming and Prosperity.

To conserve the soil, to raise abundant crops and an adequate supply of live stock; to study and apply the most efficient and economical methods of production, and to sell the stock only when ready for market, adopting the above as a steady, permanent policy, will contribute more to the prosperity of farmers themselves and to the prosperity of the nation than all other causes put together.

Wallingford In His Prime

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

Copyright, 1913, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

SYNOPSIS

J. Rufus Wallingford, skillful manipulator of other people's money for his own benefit, meets Benson Falls, the son of a railroad president, and three equally idle friends.

Wallingford agrees to manage a company to market Benson Falls' patented portable bungalow after Falls drops the net that his father is soon to open a new road through land once obtained from Wallingford at the latter's great financial loss.

Wallingford instructs his pal, Blackie Daw, to act as an accomplice in a scheme to bleed the four young men through fake orders for the portable house.

Daw, representing himself as three buyers, orders several hundred houses. Wallingford gets $25,000 cash from the rich quartet for his own patents on the company's output and threatens injunction suits against the company for infringement of other patents.

The company breaks up, and Wallingford and Daw retain 525 portable houses. Wallingford blocks President Falls' railroad scheme and is bought off for $250,000. Wallingford starts on another adventure, with his handy boy, Toad Jessop.

Wallingford buys stock in the Kimberly mine, promoted and operated by the Douglass brothers, and starts a big boom at Douglassville. Meanwhile one of the brothers is trying to sell Blackie Daw Kimberly stock in New York.

Big Bill Slammet is hooted down when he reveals before a Douglassville crowd Wallingford's past in Ciderburg. Wallingford sees how the Douglass brothers stone men out of camp who apply for jobs and recognize the Douglass brothers as mine fakes.

Wallingford hires the stoned men as a strong arm gang. He increases his popularity by giving a library to the mining camp. Blackie Daw in New York fails for some of the Kimberly mining stock.

Wallingford's paid hunters even up past scores by cleaning up the Douglass bobbies and their strong arm leader. Wallingford stalls off angry stockholders in the camp.

CHAPTER X.

Off on a Freight.

THE back door flew open, and Toad Jessop bounded in with his eyes stretched to the full capacity of their sockets. "Hike!" he shouted in a tragic whisper. "Bent it! Hit 'er up quick or they'll git you!"

"What's all this about?" inquired Wallingford, but with no levity whatever, for Toad was in such deadly earnest that even his freckles were pale.

"Come away from there!" Toad almost screamed as Blackie started cursing toward the front door. "The whole town's comin' up Main street, an' they say they're gonna hang both of youse on top o' the big derrick!"

"Not for what? I don't understand!" cried Wallingford, standing up and snatching a traveling bag and opening his door.

Toad grabbed him by the collar and tried to drag him toward the back door. "You start runnin'!" he urged, beginning to cry and falling into a furious anger because he found himself doing so. "If you stop to git any thing you're gonna stop a long time. Come outside, dang it!"

"Excuse me, I'm going," observed Blackie, slapping on his hat and not waiting to burden himself with his suit case. He opened the back door, but closed it immediately. "Too late Jimmy," he declared. "They're comin' up the back way too. We're caught!"

They could hear the mob now. Its advance was like the sullen roar of a distant steamboat whistle, and Wallingford marveled that a mere sound could be so damp and icy.

"Quick, Toad! Tell me what it's all about," begged Wallingford.

"They've found out that these Douglass bobbies is fakes an' frands all the way through. They never got enough iron out o' all their mines to make a nail. They found out that you an' Blackie is grafters, too, an' they think you're in with this whole Kimberly mine swindle. I told 'em it wasn't so, but all that got me was a sprint. Gee! You ought to see me comin'! Say, old man Saghorn made a speech, an' it wasn't any drunken speech like big Bill Slammet made, neither. It was some speech. Say, he called you all the thieves an' robbers an'!"

There came a stern knock upon the door, accompanied by the murmur of many voices. Wallingford turned pale. The knock was repeated, and there were shouts for him to come out.

It was Blackie who sprang to the door and opened it. Finding a man there who had it in his eye to lead the throng immediately inside, Blackie promptly confused the fellow's purpose by knocking him off the step. He grinned as the man fell, and one member of the mob was kind enough to laugh.

"Hello, boys!" hailed Blackie cheerfully. "Who's the party on?"

"It's on you, I guess," came from the man who had laughed.

"We're a-gonna hang you, that's what!" was the determined announcement of a man in the very first row.

"Happy thought," returned Blackie. "But you want your money first, don't you? Every man who wants to sell his share of stock in the Kimberly Operating company hold up his hand."

A hundred hands went up.

"Some of you are sensible anyhow," commented Blackie. "I refer to the gentlemen who have not yet decided that they want to sell. You're made

"I'll buy every share of stock."

the biggest mistake of your lives, boys. Mr. Wallingford will explain the situation to you."

Wallingford, emboldened by the fact that they were listening, stepped out upon the porch and confronted an acre of eyeballs.

"I'll buy every share of stock that is offered to me, and for spot cash," he announced.

"Will you buy our houses?" demanded Saghorn.

"I'll be cheating you if I buy even your stock," returned Wallingford. "Gentlemen, I have glorious news for you. The Kimberly iron mine is one of the richest in the country."

"It's a lie!" called a voice from the crowd.

"It was Reef Higgins called you that lie, Mr. Wallingford," shrieked Toad. "I'll put him out tomorrow so you or Blackie k'n lick 'im!"

There was more than one snicker from the crowd upon this, and Wallingford, thankful to Toad for having turned the tide of that crisis, gained full command of himself and of the crowd. Heiming the prow of his much strained craft head on against the waves and cutting them smoothly, he took the men, the solid substantial men of Douglassville, right into his confidence.

He explained to them exactly how matters stood; how he had known all along that the mine was a good one; how he had thwarted the dishonest Douglass bobbies in their evil intentions and had worked like a Trojan for the benefit of himself and his beloved citizens, and how tomorrow he wanted them to join with him in forming a new company, in which he would give them share for share in exchange for the stock they now held, and they would turn the magnificently rich Kimberly mine into the foundation of a fortune for every dweller in Douglassville!

The magic of him got upon them. His voice soothed them like the odor of poppies. His presence, big, sleek, richly clad and prosperous, held and satisfied their eyes. His words, round, well chosen, aptly and cleverly strung together, stole their reason.

They answered his smile, they responded to his enthusiasm, they cheered him when he finished, and they gave him their word tomorrow to prove what he said!

Flushed and triumphant, Wallingford, having cheerfully waived upon his way the last handshaking straggler of his friends and fellow citizens, came in the house, sat down in his chair and trembled like a leaf.

"Do you know, for just three pines I'd take the first train out of here and let those happy stockholders run their own meeting tomorrow," he declared.

"There may be a fortune in that mine across the track, but it's rather lost its charm for me. I don't think I'll ever be able to look up at the big derrick without feeling my spine turning into an icicle."

"I don't intend to go over and look at it at all," returned Blackie. "I'm glad I didn't see it when I got off the train. How did you come out with the houses, Jim?"

"Not so badly," said Wallingford, brightening. "I've collected nearly $100,000 on the houses and lots. I imagine I must have cleared some $40,000 or $50,000 on the houses alone, but my share is invested in the installment plan mining stock I'm carrying for the mob that just wanted to hang me."

"Let's talk about our families," invited Blackie wearily. "Seems like I don't want to hear about mines any more at all."

They were in quiet discussion of their respective domestic affairs when once more Toad Jessop burst in upon them.

"Now we do git!" he cried, his fists doubled and his nostrils distended. "There's a fright train just pullin' in at the depot, an' if we run like Texas down the back way, in the shadow of the houses, we k'n climb her. There ain't a second. Start runnin', I tell you!"

Both men were upon their feet and had grabbed their hats.

"Now, what's the matter?" demanded Wallingford.

"Don't ask me no questions," pleaded Toad. "Ole Saghorn is just flashin' a speech up on Redeye square, an' he's got 'em all to believe that you two jes' gave 'em a slick talk to gain time so's youse could sneak out of town. They'll be down here a-sizzlin' in about three minutes, by the way they was howlin', an' this time there won't be no speeches made. Saghorn, he says—"

"I don't care what he says," interrupted Blackie. "I have an important engagement, and if you two gentlemen will excuse me I shall just jog upon my way."

Wallingford marveled at how slowly he ran for so swift a movement of his legs. He noticed that Blackie was several houses in advance of him, and he believed that Toad was darting along somewhere in his neighborhood, but he took no accurate observations. He was paying very strict attention to the stationary headlight of that freight engine and to the rough ground that he was traversing. It seemed constantly rising up toward him, and if he ever let it come up near enough to hit him in the place which most affected his breathing—well, there was enough money in the bank to make Fannie and little Jimmie comfortable. But he felt that they needed him.

Just before he reached the track the train began to move. He saw Blackie run down to meet it and clamber upon the first car and leap over its edge with the jerky motion of a jumping jack. With a desperate spurt Wallingford reached the track as that same car came up to him. He made a wild clutch at it and managed to find his hand gripped tightly upon the hand bar and his foot resting firmly in the iron stirrup. For a couple of minutes, which seemed as many ages, he hung there trying to regain his breath; then, summoning all his strength, he brought up his other foot, stepped to the buffer, crawled upon the edge of the car and fell in. A groan told him that he had fallen upon Blackie, but neither one of them had the energy or the breath to move for some minutes. Blackie was the first to recover, and, the car being full of slack coal that he had fallen upon Blackie, but neither one of them had the energy or the breath to move for some minutes. # TO FIT MILLIONS FOR THEIR WORK

State Grants Are Urged For Vocational Education.

$1,500,000 TO TAKE UP PLAN

Commission on National Aid Asks That as Starter and Would Increase Amount to $7,000,000 a Year—Three Types of Schools Projected For the More Common Occupations.

According to the report of the commission on national aid for vocational education, appointed by the president, and of which Senator Hoke Smith was chairman, of more than 25,000,000 workers in agriculture and industry fewer than 1 per cent have had adequate preparation for their jobs. "Millions of persons between the ages of fourteen and eighteen years," the report continues, "are not in school, having left to enter the ranks of the breadwinners. About half of these are children under sixteen years of age, the large majority of whom left school before completing their elementary education and are handicapped by lack of schooling either for successful wage earning or for intelligent citizenship.

"As a solution of the problem confronting the nation, vocational training is needed to conserve and develop our natural resources, to prevent waste of human labor, to provide a substitute for the old apprenticeship, to increase wage earning power and to meet the increasing demand for trained workers.

Initial Appropriation of $1,500,000.

"To stimulate the movement for vocational education the commission recommends the distribution of national grants among the states. In its bill to congress it provides for an appropriation of $1,500,000 for 1915 to be increased yearly thereafter, according to a graduated scale, until the maximum annual appropriation of $7,000,000 is reached in 1924. This money is to be used under certain conditions for the training of teachers for vocational subjects and for the paying of salaries of vocational teachers.

"The kind of vocational education which is most needed at the present is that which is designed to prepare workers for the more common occupations in which the great mass of our people find useful employment," continues the report. "Vocational training to be most effective and thorough-going should be restricted to persons over fourteen years of age who have laid the foundations of a general education in the elementary schools."

For Three Types of Schools.

The commission has proposed that the grants shall be used in three different types of schools—all day, part time and evening schools. Of these schools the report says: "The results which may be expected from the all day industrial schools are the retention in school longer of boys and girls who leave because of their lack of interest, a wiser choice of vocation because of an opportunity to test ability and to discover likes and dislikes, greater certainty of success in a vocation because of the development of a more definite purpose in life and of an increased industrial intelligence, of an insight into fundamental principles of trade, the acquisition of sufficient skill to shorten the period of apprenticeship and a greater readiness to profit by part time or evening instruction for the sake of future advancement or promotion.

"Part time schools may provide, among other things, for trade extension for the next step within a given industry, trade preparation courses for boys and girls employed in occupation where advancement is dependent upon increased specific and general intelligence, and home economic courses for girls who are employed in any line of industry."

HAS A DEBT PAYING DAY.

Oklahoma Town Starts Custom of Annually Repaying Obligations.

Carmen, Okla., has inaugurated a novel institution to be known as "take it back day" and to be observed each year on a date in June to be set by the mayor. Everybody in the town who has borrowed money in the course of the year and has failed to repay it or give something in kind will be reminded annually of his or her remittance and will be expected to redeem the debt.

The first "take it back day" was a big success. The best of neighborhood good feeling was displayed. The postmaster said that even the parcel post was invoked to return things to people who had moved from the town. Many persons who had grudges against others also took advantage of the good feeling inspired by the day to "make up," and several neighborhood feuds were ended.

PRESIDENT AND MORGAN CONFER

Financier Gives Views on Business to President.

OTHERS ARE TO GO LATER

Henry Ford Will Be the Next to Give Mr. Wilson His Views on Condition of Trade.

Washington, July 3.—J. P. Morgan and President Wilson had nearly an hour's conference at the White House on general business conditions.

It was the first of a series of talks the president plans to have in the near future with the captains of industry and finance, to learn their views and give his own on the industrial and financial situation of the country as well as measures in congress.

White House officials said the conference between the president and Mr. Morgan had been just a friendly discussion of the general subject. Mr. Morgan refused to discuss what had taken place. "There is absolutely nothing I can say," said he.

Under a running fire of questions as he passed through the door of the executive offices, Mr. Morgan only shook his head and smiled.

As he stepped into his carriage he said: "My visit with the president was very cordial. You will have to ask him what we talked about."

President Wilson told inquirers that in his talk with Mr. Morgan business conditions generally had been discussed and that Mr. Morgan had expressed no opinion of whether business was good or bad. He added that he had known Mr. Morgan a long time and that their talk was largely reminiscent.

Speaking of business conditions generally the president said that the attitude of business men seemed to be growing in favor of the administration's trust program. In all of his correspondence with business men, he added, he had heard of no specific objections to the anti-trust program.

The president compared the opposition to the anti-trust bills to the opposition which preceded the passage of the currency bill. He said he conjectured that probably the objections to both bills resulted from the failure of the opponents of the measures to read the bills.

It was said at the White House that Mr. Morgan had asked for the engagement and it was explained that the two men are personal friends. Another version of the meeting was that Mr. Morgan had been invited through friends to give his views to the president. Next week the president will have an informal conference with Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, who will be entertained at luncheon at the White House. It was said that the president had invited Mr. Ford.

White House officials said that one of the features which had entered into public discussion of the administration's trust legislation policy and what the president had characterized as a "psychological depression" caused by a campaign to halt the trust bills in congress was an inference that Mr. Wilson did not care to meet the big business men of the country face to face, and discuss with them personally issues in which they are so vitally interested.

By a series of informal conferences with leaders of industry and finance of which those with Mr. Morgan and Mr. Ford will be the first, it is the idea to show that the president is approaching the subject with an open mind, willing to hear the views of big business first hand and outline his own in return.

MET ODD DEATH IN AUTO

Arm Torn Out by Bridge Girder and He Bleeds to Death.

Burlington, Ia., July 3.—Clifford Johnson, twenty-five years old, met death in an unusual automobile accident.

He was riding with two girls, both of whom were half asleep. As the car passed over a bridge, Johnson stood up, raised an arm in the air and it caught in the bridge girder, whisking him from the car.

When his absence was discovered a few minutes later the car was run back and Johnson was found dead. His arm had been pulled out at the socket and he had bled to death.

FOILS ATTEMPT TO ROB TRAIN

Deputy Sheriff Opens Fire on Masked Bandits.

Pendleton, Ore., July 3.—George MacDuffey, a deputy sheriff, of Heppner, Ore., fought a single-handed battle with train robbers in the aisle of a chair car fifty miles east of here, killing one and wounding another.

The sheriff missed death himself when the westerners' inevitable pocket comb, in the upper left hand vest pocket, slowed down a bullet aimed at his heart. The car was on the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation passenger train No. 5, west bound.

The dead man was identified by an inscription in his watch as Hugh Whitney, a desperado, known for depredations in Montana, Idaho and Wyoming. His wounded companion and a third robber were trailed by possees. They got about $200 from the express car of the train, one diamond ring valued at $700 and a few dollars.

The robbers boarded the train when it slowed down to drop a helper engine. They herded the crew into the express car, and finding no great reward in the safe, decided to rob the passengers. A request that women be left undisturbed was agreed to and one robber remained to guard the crew. The others encountered MacDuffey.

After the shooting the wounded bandit dragged himself back to the express car, summoned his companion and escaped.

Millionaire Found Strangled. Brockton, Mass., July 3.—Fred S. Tolman, millionaire and one of the largest job printers in the country, was found strangled to death under two ladders in the rear of Warren Howard's barn on West Elm street here, not far from his own home. Investigation into the mystery was begun by the authorities.

MISS COLUMBIA On the FOURTH

She has ninety million sweethearts— All join in to sing her praise! She's the gem of land and ocean, And the Fourth's her day of days!

HOW BIDDY ENJOYED THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

BIDDY was born on the "lither side," as she told everybody that was curious enough to ask her. Though foreign by birth, in feelings and actions she was thoroughly American. She had spent one Fourth of July in this country and had observed with intense interest the enthusiasm all boys and girls showed in the day. At the same time she resolved that when the Fourth next came around her celebration would be as lively as anybody's. And so it turned out.

Now, it might be said of Biddy that there had been a serious double mistake in her life. Instead of an Irish girl she should have been a boy and an American. But American she was bound to become, anyway, and no boy living could have entered more heartily into the celebration than this same Biddy O'Hare, in her straw hat with a wide drooping brim and her green frock.

There was just one peculiar thing in Biddy's makeup, and that, to call it by its gentlest name, was a tendency to prevaricate. Indeed, prevaricate will hardly do, for she often made up whole stories without even a foundation of truth. It was Biddy's weakness. Her parents fondly hoped that she would outgrow it—she was only eight—but, as things were now, almost all she said had to be carefully considered as coming from Biddy.

In the town where Biddy lived there was a public celebration, and this young Irish-American made her plans to attend. She did not think it worth while to ask permission. When the afternoon came she found it easy enough to get herself lost in the crowd and to follow the rest of the patriotic

CITIZENS OUT TO THE LATE EVENING.

This, she felt, made her fully an American. The days waved for her as much as for anybody. And there was not a sight that escaped her. Wherever there was something extra to see Biddy would crowd in between the older persons or she would get under the ropes or the edges of a tent. When she wanted pink lemonade or peanuts she invited some man to buy them for her. She clapped when the band played. She even climbed to the band stand, where she could stand beside the man with the bass cornet.

So fascinating it all was that she did not notice when the sun went down and the torches and Japanese lanterns began to glow. She stayed right on into the evening for the fireworks. It was late when her father found her, high up in the grand stand. Of course there had been a fright when her absence was noticed, and so happy were the parents at finding her that they actually forgot to punish her for running away.

Many days passed before Biddy was through telling the wonders of her celebration. Everything she described became under her artistic touch three times as wonderful as it really had been. Biddy gave her imagination full play. The climax came when she told of going up in a paper balloon at night. She declared there were seats all around on the inside, that it was light as day in there and that the man who sent the balloons up wanted other children to go, too, but that she was the only one who dared do it. "And that," she explained, "is why they called me the hero of the celebration. And when I came down on the very spot from which I started the band played a new piece called 'Brave Biddy O'Hare.' And—"

Just at this point her father interrupted her to say very sternly that she need continue the narrative no further. There was a look in his face that Biddy had never seen before, and her story of the Fourth stopped right where it was.—Washington Star.

Laura Jean Libbey's Talks on Heart Topics

HOODWINKING A HUSBAND.

"We school our manners, not our parts. But he who sees us through and through knows that the bent of both our hearts was to be loving, honest, true."

There is no one to pull against the loosened purse strings if a single man chooses to spend all he earns. The married man who has but recently taken a wife and with small income in most instances, concludes if he is to get ahead he must look after the pennies. Such a man does not intend to be stingy; far from it. He means only to be frugal. It never occurs to him that his helpmeet may not take the same view he does. If a man weds a woman who has been used to economy, juggling successfully with the nimble sixpence, there is harmony in the household. If he marries a girl who has had all her wants plentifully supplied by her parents, she may secretly rebel against being stinted down to a small amount—a fixed price to live on.

If her husband finds fault with her for buying too expensive tablecloths and napkins, in short, reads her a sharp lecture on extravagance, he is apt not to know from her true cost of anything in future.

Of course she cannot make the merchants come down in their prices. Hubby is fond of good living. She wants peace. Therefore she does her best to stifle her conscience cry, to beware! take care! There should be no fibbing between husband and wife. No wife is justified in an attempt to hoodwink her husband by telling him that this or that is so much cheaper than it really is; or adding to the price of some article to eke out a little money to buy some bit of finery she craves and after she has bought it fears to show it up before him. Like many a woman, the weight of a secret in her heart is a heavy load—it hurts. When she confesses her little misdoing, wise is the husband who takes it good-naturedly.

Wiser and more sensible still is he who seeks her entire confidence and adds a little to her allowance to buy a bit of finery, or whatever she wants, rather than have her resort to even the least deception to satisfy his inquiries. It is always the wife who thinks most of her husband who believes that it is for his best interest not to be told anything which might annoy him. Her intentions are always well-meant. All wives should remember there is a world of truth in the lines:

"Oh, what a fatal web we weave,
When first we practise to deceive."

The wife who condones her own first offense in misleading her husband may soon find herself sliding down a slippery road, which ends in her destruction. A husband may forgive, but will he forget an untruth? Or will he have full confidence in one, no matter how dear, that would conceal the truth from him concerning any subject? While this is meant as a gentle reminder to wives it is also intended as a warning to the husband who is unnecessarily close in dealing with his wife financially. He should study her nature and her needs.

Bird and Snake Over Auto.

With a big copperhead in its claws, so heavy that it could hardly hold it, a hawk hovered for minutes over the heads of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fowler, driving in their automobile near Berwick, Pa.

The wriggling and venomous snake nearly struck the couple, and several times the hawk nearly dropped it into the automobile.

Ravenous Fish Eaters.

Dr. Francis Ward said in a lecture that of all the birds which preyed on fish the cormorant did the most damage. He had known a six-pound cormorant eat double or treble its own weight of fish in a day. Of aquatic mammals, the otter was the most destructive to fish, and also the cleverest fisherman in the manner it cornered its prey. The otter enjoyed fish-catching as a sport, apart from the necessities of hunger, and the lecturer had known three otters which together killed 2,000 trout in one night. Contrary to the general belief, the otter, several of which he had kept under observation, was not a dainty eater, and would eat the whole of a two-pound trout down to and including the tail-fin, and then go for another.

A NEAT JOB

By JOHN Y. LARNED

"Mr. Birkstead," said my friend Mrs. Iddleston, "I am very much worried about my son."

"What's the trouble?" I asked.

"He is infatuated with a girl I detest."

"Have you grounds for detesting her?"

"There's nothing in her. She's vain, selfish and altogether unlovely. How she has captured Jimmie I can't imagine."

Since I was not interested in Jimmie the information did not especially move me. But I was interested in his mother, who was a widow. Indeed, I had intentions with reference to Mrs. Iddleston and wished I could make her think me as fine a man as this girl had succeeded in making Jim think her a fine woman. I wondered how she did it.

"Now, I know that you, a novelist," continued Mrs. Iddleston, "are one of the inventive kind with plenty of ingenuity and can bring about some situation between Jimmie and this girl to make her appear to him as she appears to any one who sees her through eyes not distorted by the imagination."

"Who is she?" I asked.

"Julia Hinton."

"How can I know her?"

"Jimmie tells me that she's going this summer to Arlington Beach. Why can't you go there, too, for your vacation?"

"I can."

"And you will try to do something for me?"

"On one condition—that if I succeed you will find some other literary man to invent a scheme whereby I may be made to look better in your eyes than I am."

I can vouch for the fact, though I do not expect to be believed, that a widow is capable of blushing, for I detected a faint reddening as she replied with a bit of blarney: "You don't need that. Every one knows how clever you are, and I am sure you will succeed in saving my boy."

"If I succeed in showing him the girl exactly as she is I am sure you would not ask me to misrepresent her."

"Certainly not."

I had achieved some recognition on the part of the reading public and was known as an author at the hotel where I stayed, the same in which Miss Hinton stayed, and my literary reputation—for good work or bad, as the case may be—made me something of a lion.

While at the beach I was sending my publisher copy every week except the first. On my return in September I read the final plate proofs of my story, and the book was issued before Christmas.

Soon after its publication I was invited to dine at Mrs. Iddleston's. Jim was present and received me somewhat coolly. We had not been long at table before the subject of my novel was broached. Mrs. Iddleston said some very nice things about it. Jim said nothing till his mother reproached him for being so impolite as not to say something favorable to the author about his work.

I protested: "That's where we authors have a hard time," I said. "People say complimentary things to us about our work, but we get no real criticism—that which of all things we need most."

"Well," said Jim, "I have a personal bone to pick with the author in this case. Several things I said were put in the story word for word."

"You are right," I replied. "Edmond Searle is a picture of yourself."

I saw his face light with pleasure. "So you really mean that?" he asked. "Searle is a splendid fellow."

"Why do you consider him such?" I asked.

"I don't know."

"It is because you see him as he is—a real living person. You are taken out of yourself to look at yourself."

"But there is one thing about me in the story I don't like. What an ass Searle was to fall in love with that silly girl."

"The girl was a real character too."

"What, that thing?"

"What don't you like about her?"

"She hasn't any sense."

"Anything else?"

"One can tell by her talk that she is vain."
